R-6 Joseph, Ruler of Egypt

1. An old saying says, "Egypt is the gift of the Nile." Most of Egypt is desert. Only a thin strip of land along the Nile River and land in the fan-shaped delta can be used for growing food.
2. Every year at the end of June, the Nile used to overflow its banks. The floodwaters rose higher and higher until end of October. The floodwaters soaked the ground and left a heavy layer of rich soil on the fields.
3. It rains only in the delta from Cairo north to the Mediterranean Sea. Because of this, the Egyptians used the water of the Nile to irrigate their fields so those crops could grow.
4. When the floodwaters of the Nile were too low, there was not enough water to soak the soil and irrigate the fields. When the floodwaters got too high, the waters destroyed the fields.

The Ten Virgins

1. Long ago in the land of Palestine before a young couple became engaged, the parents met to agree on what each family would bring to the marriage. Then the agreement was written up and signed by the young man and each family.
2. The girl's parents planned a special celebration for relatives and friends. The engagement was announced at this celebration.
3. The young couple sat under a tent or a porch. While people watched, the young man gave the girl a coin, a ring, or a letter and said, "You are consecrated to me."
4. Someone then blessed them. Sometimes there would also be a dinner.
5. The wedding itself came several months later. The Celebration could last several days. It might begin at the bride's home and then end at the home of the groom. This usually happened in the evening.
6. The bridegroom and his friends would come to get the bride and her friends to bring them to his house. Some carried lamps to light the way through the dark streets.

Naaman and the Little Girl

1. Many years ago a little girl lived with her family in the country of Samaria. This was during the time that Elisha was the prophet.
2. As all other little Jewish girls she was a helper in her home. She would help her mother dust and sweep. She was so happy to be mother's helper.
3. In a God-fearing family among the Jews the sweetest moments of all were when the family gathered to hear the father read from the Bible scroll. Since Elisha was God's prophet at that time, this little girl must have heard her parents tell about him and all of the wonderful works he had done.
4. When the little girl was older some soldiers took her away from her happy home to the city of Damascus in a faraway country. There she worked as a maid to Captain Naaman's wife.
5. Even though she was away from home the girl was happy because she knew that God was always with her. She learned to love Captain Naaman and his wife.

18. When Naaman came home well again, how happy Mrs. Naaman was. The little girl was happy too, for she had shared God's blessing with others.
19. As the little girl prayed to God she must have thanked Him again and again for making her master well.

P-04 Big Sister Miriam

1. Big sister Miriam smiles as she looked at her new baby brother. "What a sweet baby!" they all said. "God is good to give us our baby," Miriam's mother Jochebed told them.
3. Exodus 1:22
4. 2:2
5. So they hid the baby. Each day Miriam helped mother Jochebed take care of him. She sang happy songs to keep the baby from crying.
6. Miriam's baby brother grew bigger. He kicked his feet and played with his hands. He made loud, happy noises.
7. One day Miriam's mother said, "Our baby is now three months old. We cannot hide him any longer. He cries so loudly." Miriam said, "The king's soldiers may hear the baby and take him away."
